This two day course covers the safety issues found in Confined Space Work. Participants will learn the new regulations that came into effect in September 2007. Proper assessments, planning, developing of the program, and entry procedures will be studied on day one. Case studies will be looked at to see how Confined Space entries have happened that resulted in death and injury, and how proper application of the regulation(s) will assist in a safe entry. Confined Space entry equipment that is used will be looked at and further covered on day two.

Day two will be a practical day using our 40 foot Mobile Confined Space Training Unit that allows the participants the opportunity to apply skills learned on day one. All participants will have a chance to explore and work in an area that allows them to see first hand what it is like to be in horizontal, vertical, and combination type passages. All equipment is supplied and exercises are carried out to allow teams to complete tasks. This practical training was explained by one participant as "The most fun an adult could have in a learning environment".
